

Hi there,

I just wanted to recommend the most fantastic organizer I've ever come across, and yes, I found him here on Craigslist.

I moved a 20 ft storage unit into my sister's basement, where some of it got water damaged, and then I decided to move to Mexico. (I'll bet you're starting to see why I need an organizer.)

Penny--that's his nickname--helped me go through every single thing I owned, get rid of it, pack it, dump it or sell it. His ability to stay focused, his creative solutions, and his compassion and tolerance for me when I had a complete meltdown are worth every cent.

I called a couple other organizers that I got off the Chicwit site and they wanted 75 bucks an hour. Huh? If you're a normal human being with abnormal clutter issues, it would be cheaper to burn your house down.

Penny is 200 bucks a day in the city, 225 in the suburbs, for 8 or 9 hours, and he never stops moving. He often was moving around me as I stood there in complete overwhelm). He even came over twice for a couple of hours just to finish things up for the garage sale.

His e-mail address is Pennysolucky@yahoo.com. Tell him that Suzanne sent you.

If you have any questions, I can be contacted at lifeingirlworld@yahoo.com. Oh, if I don't get back right away, it's because I'll be driving to Mexico as of Wednesday and it will take me about a week.

Gotta love craigslist.
